

Jerome "Kamasi" Hudson was born in Jackson, Tennessee; and relocated to Detroit, Michigan at the age of 2 years old with his family. He is a graduate of Central High School. Upon graduation he began working at Chrysler Corporation.

He served in the U. S. Army during the Vietnam War era and was honorably discharged and returned to his Detroit home in 1970.

In 1974, he joined the Shrine of the Black Madonna #1. He was one of the original members of Shrine #10 Houston Cadre that arrived in Houston in 1977 and at it's opening, spreading the gospel of the Kingdom and Christian faith with emphasis on cultural self-determination.

In the early 90's, Jerome attended the University of Houston. He worked 10 years in the mental health field. "I then became an entrepreneur of a building construction company; of which I'm still actively involved in doing small scale home and building repair jobs." In 2000, Jerome became a member of Southwest Community Christian Center where he used the training he received in the Shrine to serve in the following ministries: Deacon, Usher, Men's Choir and Men of War.

On April 27th, 2009, he married Gloria and their union blended them with a family of four daughters and six grandchildren.

Kamasi's past experiences consist of 35 years of community organizational service and involvement throughout the metro Houston area.

He is currently a resident of Manvel, TX in Brazoria County where he serves as a City Council member.
